

GERMAN WOUNDED FIGHTING PRUSSAINS

Sergt. von Krebs Has Served
U. S. in Philippines, Mexico and Panama.

MEMORIAL AT RAHWAY

Joseph Mulvey First Man
From New Jersey Town
Killed in Action.

Although a native of Germany, Sergeant Paul von Krebs sailed for France with the American forces and fought against the Prussians until wounded in action August 1.

Sergeant von Krebs came to this country when he was 16 and for fifteen years prior to the entry of the United States into the war was a member of the Ninth Infantry. He served in the Philippines, on the Mexican border and at the Panama Canal. He left for overseas in May, 1917, as a member of Company M, Forty-second Infantry. Prior to his enlistment he worked as a decorator and lived with his cousin, Mrs. Anna Welker, at 2170 Arthur Avenue, The Bronx.

Corporal Gilbert Paneth, severely wounded, is 22 and a member of Company B, 307th Infantry. He was drafted last September. Before entering the army he was a postal clerk and lived with his parents at 354 East Ninety-first street.

Mayor Amery of Rahway, N. J., ordered that all businesses in the city be closed for five minutes at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in honor of Joseph Mulvey, the first Rahway man killed at the front. A military mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, the Rev. C. J. Kane officiating. A detail of soldiers from the Government Hospital at Columbia attended.

Mother Grieves, but Is Proud.

Corporal Raymond L. Wordemann, 1030 Hudson street, Hoboken, died of wounds August 1, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. H. Wordemann. His mother, Mrs. H. Wordemann, his name has not yet appeared in the casualty list. Corporal Wordemann was 23 and enlisted last year with the First Battalion, 307th Infantry, New York National Guard, but was transferred later to the 124th Field Signal Battalion, Seventh Division.

His mother on learning of his death said:

"While our grief is too deep for expression, we find consolation in the knowledge and are proud of the fact that Raymond unhesitatingly and voluntarily answered the call to the colors and willingly made the supreme sacrifice in his country's cause. His words to me were 'Send me away with a smile.'"

Robert J. Robeson, severely wounded, is the son of Richard J. Robeson of the law firm of Robeson, H. Robeson & Co., 100 Broadway, New York. He was a member of the forces as early as 1916, when he was attached to the Seventy-first Regiment and was doing gait duty along the front. He was transferred to the Sixty-ninth Regiment at his own request when war was declared.

John Peluso, wounded, is 19, and enlisted in Jersey City soon after war was declared, going to France from Fort Slocum. He was very patriotic and begged his mother to allow him to join the Italian army before the United States entered the war.

Private Lawrence J. Cassidy, wounded, degree undetermined, is 21. He enlisted in Jersey City soon after war was declared. He was called for France in September. He wrote recently to his sister, Mrs. James C. Cassidy, 409 East 12th street, New York, that he had been in action and had returned without a scratch. He said he was anxiously awaiting another opportunity to fight.

Antonio Pelluso, wounded, degree undetermined, enlisted soon after the outbreak of war for service in France. He is 21, and was well known throughout the southern section of Trenton, N. J., where he lived.

Enlisted Three Years Ago.

Private Albert Danko, died of wounds July 29, was a member of the First Battalion, 307th Infantry, New York National Guard, but was transferred later to the 124th Field Signal Battalion, Seventh Division.

Only a few hours after Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rosen, 63 North Seventh street, Flushing, L. I., sent a letter to their son, Sergeant Benjamin Rosen, at Camp Lee, Va., congratulating him on his twentieth birthday, they received a telegram announcing that their other son, Private Samuel Rosen, 22, Company G, 103d Infantry, had been severely wounded. As his father and mother have received letters from him dated subsequent to the time of his injury, they are in hope a mistake has been made.

William H. Halligan, wounded, is the first Rosedale soldier in the casualty list. Private Halligan was born in Manhattan, 20 years ago, but moved to Rosedale in 1914.

Private Zack A. Chantler, machine gunner, was wounded in action July 28, according to word received yesterday by his sister, Mrs. Alfred P. Ross, Twenty-first street, Jackson Heights, Queens.

Leut. Harold H. Street has been slightly wounded, according to a cablegram received yesterday by his father, Quincy H. Street, of 20 Clinton street, Flushing, L. I. Leut. Street is 28 years old and enlisted in the old Seventh Regiment, now the 107th Infantry, at the time of the trouble with Mexico.

Private Joseph Becker, 23, missing in action, was a member of Company A, Ninth Infantry. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Becker of College Point.

BRONXVILLE FLIER KILLED.

Rejected by U. S. He Joined Canadian Aviation Service.

Leut. Leonard S. Morange was killed August 11 while serving with the Canadian branch of the Royal Flying Corps, according to a cablegram received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Morange, Bronxville, N. J.

No details have arrived since the cable message from the Secretary of the Air Ministry in London.

Leut. Morange was 22 and was a senior at Yale when he attempted enlistment in the American aviation service. He was rejected, but passed the test in Canada, was later appointed instructor and sent to England.

His younger brother, Irving S. Morange, is a Lieutenant in the American aviation forces on the western front but already downed three enemy airplanes.

PERSHING CONTROLS FIRST FIELD ARMY

He Is Now on Same Footing as Marshal Haig and
Gen. Petain.

HOLDS "ROAD TO BERLIN"

American Portion of Front Is
South of Marne—1,250,000
Men to Hold It.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Secretary Baker was formally advised to-day by Gen. Pershing that the first American Field Army has been created. Gen. Pershing retaining command of the army as well as of the entire expeditionary force for the present. The detachment added nothing to details of the army organization already made known from Paris, however, Mr. Baker said.

The announcement is regarded as having deep significance at the War Department mainly because it places the American army in France on the same footing as the French or British forces there.

Formation of the army is taken here to mean that the Americanization of a definite portion of the front has been completed. Supply lines, railway bases, storage facilities, debarkation ports and the like, created and operated by Americans, stand behind the First Army. The only statement of the location of this American front given is that it is "south of the Marne." Presumably this means a part at least of the long line from St. Mihiel to the Swiss border, where American troops have been in at intervals during the last few months.

Extent of Front Undisclosed.

The extent of that front has not been disclosed, nor has the definite stretch of the army been given. The advance indicates that it comprises, however, five full corps, which means approximately 1,250,000 men.

The effect of the taking over of the line is to make a definite beginning at apportioning the long front. The British hold the left flank, aided by the Belgians, from the sea to the junction of the French First Army and the French First Army in Picardy, where an offensive is being carried out at present.

In that position the British are not only holding their share of the line but stand between the enemy and the Channel, which would be his only road to England while the British fleet exists. The French armies presumably are being concentrated wholly between the Picardy junction with the British and the American left, beyond Verdun. They block the roads to Paris.

Holds Bulk of Line.

To the Americans has fallen the rest of the front to the Swiss border, when the other American armies shall have been formed. The First Army undoubtedly now holds the bulk of that line, with such French help as is necessary. The whole line probably is under Gen. Pershing's direct command, including the French corps or divisions that are necessary until additional American troops arrive.

The American commander will hereafter have all operations on his front under his own hand. He has as much freedom of action on his own lines as has Sir Douglas Haig on the British front or Gen. Petain on the French front, he stands on an equality with them. The First Army, under Gen. Pershing, is the main body of the American force for the major campaigns.

As commander of the army in the field Gen. Pershing will be well situated to weigh the final action up to this time of the committee on the income tax as it will affect individuals.

The normal tax will be 10 per cent. of the amount of income above the exemptions of $2,000 for married men and heads of families and $1,000 for others. In addition, as under existing law, there is an additional exemption of $200 for each dependent child under 18 years of age. However, the possessors of small incomes are not going to have to pay the entire 10 per cent. normal tax.

It was learned to-day that the committee has written into the first draft of the bill the provision that on the first $4,000 of taxable income the normal rate shall be only 5 per cent. This will mean that a married man with two children and an income of $6,000 will have to pay a normal income tax of $200 instead of $400, as the bill provided until the amendment was adopted.

The final shape in which the committee has left the income super-taxes, provided the four suggested changes in some of the higher rates are not adopted to-morrow is as follows:

Gen. Liggett's Corps.

Gen. Liggett's corps probably is regarded as the mobile reserve of the First Army and as such is being employed on the French front. Should aggressive operations be undertaken on the American front, however, this corps probably would be used there, supplemented by French and possibly British mobile reserves sent by Gen. Foch. In that case, while Gen. Foch would map out the objects of the action in a broad way, Gen. Pershing would command the joint forces.
